

'This really is quite good. No sign of decay. One would not have thought it would have kept this long. Remarkable, quite remarkable.'

Wine writer André Simon in 1964 on tasting a 1912 Te Mata Estate red blend half a century after it was first bottled.

'New Zealand Wines and the Question of Age',
Meininger's Wine Business International, September 2018