A Family Affair

Te Mata was established as a family wine business, and to have Toby join us now continues the tradition of active family involvement in all aspects of the business. We're thrilled and have asked Toby to say hello:

'Hi to everyone. Though I've worked at Te Mata in different roles since I was tall enough to climb into a picking bin, after working the 2012 and 2013 vintages in the cellars I've now got a chance to assist with sales and marketing.

I studied at Victoria, Wellington, Penn State, USA and Edinburgh, Scotland, worked in publishing in London, at Random House NZ and project-managed the redevelopment of Wellington's great independent bookstore - Unity Books.

It seems I've come some way in life. From growing up at Coleraine to now working at the winery – that'd be a grand total of about 500 metres.

Best wishes, looking forward to meeting you, if I haven't already, either at the winery or via Te Mata's Facebook or Twitter.'
